LEARN TO TELL YOUR STORY SO IT CONNECTS, COMPELS, AND POSITIONS YOU FOR ANY OPPORTUNITY.

This course teaches you how to craft personal stories that reflect who you are and what you stand for, and how to shape those stories for everything from essays and interviews to pitches, presentations, and creative content.

Each week, you'll write, refine, and perform stories grounded in real prompts and real goals. You'll learn what makes stories stick with originality and authenticity, how to adapt your voice for different audiences, and how to use AI prompting methods to elevate how you present yourself, on and off camera.

At its core, storytelling is one of the most powerful entrepreneurial tools. Whether you're building a product, pitching an idea, positioning yourself for an internship, or applying to college, the ability to clearly and creatively communicate your value is what sets you apart and helps you create opportunities for yourself.

You'll leave the course with a personalized storytelling system, a portfolio of original pieces, and the confidence to speak about yourself with purpose and authenticity.

WHAT YOU'LL ACTUALLY DO

- Define your personal value proposition and what makes your voice distinct
- Write, revise, and perform personal stories across formats and goals
- Learn techniques to make your stories clear, memorable, and adaptable
- Use AI prompting and editing tools to sharpen your messaging and polish your delivery
- Practice giving and receiving feedback in a small group setting

In a world where your story is your strategy, this course helps you build, shape, and own it.

WHAT YOU'LL LEAVE WITH

- A clear personal narrative you can use in essays, interviews, and pitches
- A flexible toolkit of 5 to 6 original stories tailored to different audiences
- The confidence to speak about yourself with clarity, purpose, and originality
- A repeatable storytelling system you can use to stand out in any context
- Video and written story content developed using personal creativity, enhanced with AI-prompting techniques
- A final story refined for a high-stakes audience or opportunity

Meet Your Mentor

Saumya Mehta

Saumya Mehta is an entrepreneur and educator who has spent the last six years exploring how people think, build, and learn. Through his work at Tufts University's pre-college program and discovery research and focus groups for Mosaic Minds, he has worked with students from over 10 countries on embracing creativity and entrepreneurial mindset, and is only just getting started!

With degrees in Engineering Psychology and Innovation & Management from Tufts, Saumya blends analytical thinking with creative instinct. From writing for cricket media and running a podcast to landing roles at ventures across stages (be it a 2-person AI SaaS Studio or a Series C media-tech company), storytelling has shaped his journey at every step. It's how he's created these opportunities for himself that align with his curiosities and ambitions—and now, through this course, he's excited to help students do the same.

He founded Mosaic Minds to offer the kind of learning he wished he had growing up—practical, expressive, and deeply personal—and aims to utilize this course to give students a window into that kind of learning through the lens of personal storytelling.
